

Engine System Update 2

I have extracted the interface for network communication and implemented their windows version implementations.

I have implemented a client class and a server class based on the network communication interfaces, which can send and receive strings

I have read a little about sharing data between multiple threads, and implemented some thread safe containers.

Things to do

Provides simple user interfaces for to use this system.

Provides template classes for user to wrap their data.

